We send email to millions of people... every week.

We've learned a thing or two about writing email subject lines that get opened.

Our best 101 email subject lines are all yours in just a second...

... but first let's look at the elements that make these email subject lines successful.

EVERY subject line below contains at least one of these 7 elements:

1 SELF INTEREST

The most straight forward and clear method for writing an email subject line is to communicate how opening the email will benefit the reader.

How will the content of your email get them something they want?

Or, how will it protect them against something they don't want?

2 NEWS

You can pull great open rates by communicating that your email contains something that is new to the reader.

3 CURIOSITY

A well crafted curiosity based email subject line will often get outstanding open rates. That said, a curiosity based email subject line will often fail miserably. Where possible, combine one of these other elements (particularly News or Self Interest) with curiosity .

4 SOCIAL PROOF

People make decisions, in part, by observing the decisions other people have made. Effective email subject lines often provide proof that other people have made the choice you would like your reader to make.

Have an impressive number of people already made the choice you'd like your reader to make?

5 URGENCY/SCARCITY

A powerful element to add to any email subject line is a legitimate reason to act NOW.

The best way to move someone to action is to communicate that the resource you're promising in the email is finite in some way.

Can you use, for example, deadlines, limited quantities or seating limitations to communicate urgency or scarcity in your email subject line?

6 STORY

An email subject line that tells the beginning of a story can be effective. The subject line will need to create curiosity to get opened.

How can your email be wrapped in a story?

7 HUMANITY

In the end... people do business with people. Remember to mix some humanity in with your promotional and content email.

How can you connect person to person with your reader?

BUT DON'T DO THIS...

Perhaps more importantly — NONE of our best email subject lines are:

- Cute
- Clever

Ok... almost none of our best are cute or clever. Every once in a great while a cute or clever subject line will work... most of the time they will get low open rates.

For the most part it pays to be direct and clear.

Ok... let's take a look at our top email subject lines.

We begin with the 10th best email subject line...

10 BREAKING NEWS...
